

WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA:

We Need YOU to Observe Wild Plants and Animals!!!

April 26 to April 29, 2019

The City Nature Challenge (CNC) is a friendly competition between cities and regions all over the world to see which one can observe the most nature over a 4-day period. By participating, you'll not only get out and see some great nature, you'll help scientists collect data on the biodiversity of our region— and help Western North Carolina win! PLUS: The top participants in Western North Carolina will win an awesome naturalist prize pack!

THREE PRIZE CATEGORIES

Adults:

Add the free iNaturalist app for Android and iPhone to your mobile device and sign up for the project: City Nature Challenge 2019: Western North Carolina

Schools and Youth Groups:

You can create a group account at ecoEXPLORE.net to enable your entire class or group to participate at your school, center or local park.

Families and Kids:

You can create an individual account at ecoEXPLORE.net and explore anywhere you wish! In addition, keep participating after the City Nature Challenge to earn badges and cool prizes!

For more information contact Jonathan Marchal, Youth Education Manager at The North Carolina Arboretum, at jmarchal@ncarboretum.org.

